TTPC Hosts Successful Principal's Breakfast to Build Strategic Student Pipeline

Commitments Secured from Key High Schools; Plans Underway for Ongoing Engagement

Kingston, Jamaica — Trench Town Polytechnic College (TTPC) is proud to announce the successful execution of its Principal's Breakfast, held on Friday, July 4, 2025. The initiative marks a pivotal step in TTPC's broader strategy to establish a structured pipeline for student transition from the Sixth Form Pathways Programme into the College's suite of tertiary offerings.

The event brought together principals from eight key high schools in and around TTPC's geographic zone, including Charlie Smith High, Spanish Town High, Haile Selassie High, Charlemont High, Papine High, Norman Manley High, Kingston Technical High, and Dunoon Technical High.

Held on TTPC's campus, the breakfast served as a dynamic information session, networking platform, and a soft launch of a forthcoming MOU-style partnership initiative designed to formalize student matriculation routes into TTPC's programmes.

"This event was not just about sharing information—it was about building lasting relationships, aligning on student success goals, and co-creating a framework for future collaboration," said Dr. Dosseth Edwards Watson, Principal of TTPC.

Through open dialogue and creative engagement, the event allowed TTPC leadership to present the College's value proposition, while also listening to feedback from school principals and identifying shared priorities. A key highlight of the morning was a candid roundtable discussion between TTPC's Principal and the attending principals, resulting in firm commitments from all participating schools to support the initiative moving forward.

In addition to the in-person engagement, the College also produced a video recap of the event, now available on its social media platforms, capturing the energy, insights, and spirit of partnership that defined the day.

The Principal's Breakfast represents the first in a series of strategic initiatives aimed at broadening access, strengthening partnerships, and positioning TTPC as a first-choice institution for students seeking practical, industry-aligned tertiary education.

TTPC looks forward to expanding this engagement model and deepening collaboration with stakeholders in the education sector to ensure sustainable, student-centered development across the region.
